Rucker of Hondo joined the Air Corps but is unassigned at this time.

MEXICAN YOUTH KILLED; SECOND IN JAIL

Trinidad Miranda, about 20 years of age, was killed almost instantly about 11:30 Sunday night, August 16, when struck by a pick-up truck. The fatal accident occurred when the youth and a companion, Fortino Garcia, were on their way home walking west near the stock pens in Hondo. The driver failed to stop but was later identified by Garcia as Alejandro Baron, who was arrested that night by local officers.

An examining trial for Baron was held August 19 in Justice Court with Judge H. V. Haass presiding. The youth was charged with failure to stop and render aid and his bail was set at $1,000.00. Baron defaulted and was committed to the Medina County jail, to appear before the District Court which convenes in January 1943.

Funeral services for Miranda were held Monday afternoon.

NEWS NOTES From The Navigation School

MAJOR JEWETT TRANSFERRED TO DEL RIO

Major J. J. Jewett, post adjutant at the AAF Navigation School, will leave Hondo Thursday or Friday for Del Rio, Texas, where he will be assigned to the Pilot's Advanced Training School there.

Major Jewett came to Hondo in mid-July from Harlingen, where he was administrative inspector and adjutant at the army gunnery school there. His first active military service was as administrative inspector at Kelly Field, Texas. Before entering the service, he was a civil engineer. A native of Halstead, Kansas, he was graduated from Kansas State College, Manhattan, with a degree in civil engineering.

Major Jewett's family will remain in Hondo.

TWO SQUADRONS PLEDGE 100% BOND PURCHASE

With 94 out of every 100 enlisted men at the AAF Navigation School buying war bonds, post bond officers saw victory in sight this week for their goal of 100 percent participation in bond purchases. Pledges from enlisted men will total more than $70,000 annually.

Two of the Squadrons have reported 100 percent pledges. Every man in the 845th and 847th school squadrons has signed for war bond deductions from his monthly pay.

In the 847th, which reached its 100 percent goal, August 11, a total of $773.75 is deducted from the squadron's payroll each month, and applied toward the purchase of bonds for the men. The 845th school squadron reported 100 percent on August 13.

As the campaign for 100 percent bond purchases continues, Captain Thurman F. Staudt, officer in charge of bond sales, reports new additions every day to the swelling ranks of bond buyers.

Enlisted men may authorize any amount to be deducted from their monthly pay. The money is then applied toward the purchase of a war bond. Assisting in the campaign for bond sales are Corp. Joseph E. Keating of the 847th school squadron and Sgt. Morris G. Rogers and Corp. L. F. Waxson of the 845th school squadron.

SKUNK MASCOT ALSO PRESENT AT EXERCISES

Tradition had its place at graduation exercises when "Jackpot", the skunk mascot of the navigation cadet detachment, was presented by the retiring cadet colonel, Lt. David E. McCash of Grants Pass, Ore., to the new cadet colonel, W. J. Mitchell of Santa Barbara, California. "Jackpot" hangs around a miniature hangar when he isn't being handed down from one class to another.

LARGEST NAVIGATION CLASS GRADUATES HERE

Largest class in the history of the world's largest Navigation School here was graduated last Saturday morning to take its place in the Army Air Forces. Col. Linus D. Frederick, commanding officer, delivered the principal address at commencement exercises for the first class to finish at the Hondo location of the school. He was introduced by Lt. Col. John M. Hutchinson, assistant director of training.

After the graduation, the newly commissioned lieutenants of Class 42-11 were honored when they held their first review of undergraduate navigation cadets. Climax of the ceremony came when Lt. Col. Hutchinson pinned the coveted wings of a navigator in the Army Air Forces on the left breasts of the graduates.

Col. Frederick presented class scholastic honors to Lt. Orville H. Nellen and Lt. Walter J. Thimm. Lt. Nellen, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Nellen of Bongards, Minn., received the Maniche-Marantz Memorial Trophy in recognition of the highest scholastic average based on achievement in ground school work, flying ability, meteorology and military proficiency. Lt. Nellen is a graduate of the University of Minnesota.

Lt. Thimm, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Thimm, 841 West 76 Street, Chicago, Illinois, won the La Roche Memorial Trophy for the second highest scholastic average.

MASTER SERGEANT WALTER SIMPSON HONORED

Master Sergeant Walter Simpson of the 837th School Squadron was cited for proficiency when he became the first non-commissioned officer to be made an honorary member of the Army Air Forces graduating class. He has had 26 years of active service in the Army and is a veteran Air Corps line chief. Sergeant Simpson was presented a plaque during the cadet review, August 15.

FIRST RED CROSS CLASS

The class will meet for three hours. It will meet each Tuesday until the 20-hour course is completed.

Registration for the first aid instruction is open to all women civil service employees of the Navigation School, as well as to the wives of officers and men employees.

There is no enrollment fee. Each registrant is obliged, however, to purchase a textbook on First Aid. The price of the book is 60 cents.

All women of the navigation school who wish to register for the course may contact Mrs. Bader.

NEW "JACKPOT" CLASS REPORTS

Members of Hondo's first "Freshman" class of AAF Navigation Cadets reported Monday from Ellington Field, Houston. They began immediately the intensive training that will prepare them to direct the course of America's bombers over Axis-land.

Members of the class donned their "Jackpot" buttons immediately upon arrival. The buttons, which must be worn for three weeks, designated the cadets as under-classesmen.

All of the cadets in the new class have completed their first nine weeks of training. The training consisted of basic military drill, as well as classroom instruction in mathematics, physics and radio.

The class will be at Hondo for 15 weeks. Upon successful completion of the course, the cadets will be awarded their silver navigator's wings and will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Army Air Forces.

During the 15 weeks training at the world's largest navigation school here, the cadet will fly approximately 15,000 miles in practice flights.

NEW PERSONNEL ADJUTANT APPOINTED

Lt. Clark M. Cunningham has been named Personnel Adjutant, succeeding Capt. William J. Justice. Lt. Cunningham was formerly assistant personnel adjutant here, and he was assigned previously at Ft. Sill, Okla.; Camp Barkley, Texas; and Kelly Field, Texas. He was graduated from Oklahoma University with two degrees, B. A. and M. S. He also attended Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass. Prior to his entrance into the Air Corps, Lt. Cunningham resided in Oklahoma City, Okla., where he was a teacher and accountant.

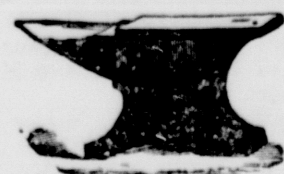

337th NEW INSIGNIA

The 337th School Squadron of the AAF Navigation School has no insignia now—but it will have a new insignia of its own in a few days.

The squadron's new insignia will be selected from a group of 26 suggested designs, submitted by men of the school squadron. Balloting is now under way to select the preferred insignia. Most designs feature the navigation theme.

The design will be drawn on an organization standard and placed outside the orderly room. The squadron plans to paint the insignia on its own planes.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Everything is a contest. To get any place it has to be via a contest, but subjects are getting scarce. I was talking to Henry about it. He says I haven't yet seen or heard of a Sad Sight Contest. Stir one up, he says. Okay, I says.

To begin with I will give you a few samples of Sad Sights—kinda to get the ball rolling. Everybody having samples, will send them to the Editor.

My first Sad Sight sample is a nice young feller, up-and-coming looking, but tagging along with a sweetie in purple sailor pants laced up the back—and leading the gal's dog. And my second sample is a nice grandma, fresh from a beauty shop, with her new permanent glistening in the sun and her hat in her hand versus where it should be.

You are sticking your neck out, says Henry—the beauty shoppys will picket you. Okay, I stys, while they are picketing, they won't be putting purple enamel on mama's pretty cheek and making her look like an Apache or Cherokee on the war path. You are not as thick as you look, says Henry.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

VOTE TOMORROW

Tomorrow, August 22nd, is the day for the run-off primary election. This election is made necessary by the election laws of the state requiring the winner of the Democratic nomination to have a clear majority of the votes cast. A majority vote in the Democratic primary in Texas is equivalent to election and those who fail or refuse to vote therein virtually disfranchise themselves insofar as making their votes count in the selection of their public servants. Therefore, all qualified voters should cast their votes tomorrow without fail.

The election supplies are in the hands of the proper parties and the election will be held at the usual time and place and in the regular manner.

Elsewhere in this paper is a sample of the ballot as it will be used. Don't fail to vote!

FIRST THINGS FIRST

The Leakey Leader.
In a recent issue of the Herald Editor Davis of Hondo urges his public to subscribe for the paper and help him see the completion of the proposed U. S. Highway 173 from Corpus Christi, via Hondo, Leakey, and on into Alaska.

This old waddie is one percent for this highway as it will traverse some of the most picturesque as well as prosperous parts of the Southwest and will, no doubt, be the means of hundreds of additional visitors to Texas from the northwest—Ridin' The Range With the Old Waddie.

Apropos the foregoing, if by a combination of military disasters, we should lose control of the Pacific Ocean to the Japs, the yellow men established themselves permanently in Alaska, held the Pacific coast of Canada and the United States at their mercy, and the Rocky Mountains became our line of defense Highway 83 from the gulf to Canada and thence to Alaska via the international highway now building would become indispensable and of the greatest possible strategic value. The gap connecting 83 at Leakey with 66 below Jourdan would shorten by several miles and much time the outlet to deep water at Corpus Christi.

In short, there may be America's duplicate of the Burma road of China.

Fantastic?

Well, who would have thought a year ago Japan would control the world's natural rubber supply and we would be scratching the dump grounds for scrap rubber?

We still say:
"Let's build 173—First!"

Corpus Christi advices relayed to the South Texas Chamber of Commerce state that the completed intracoastal canal from New Orleans to Corpus Christi definitely will be opened by April 1. Col. L. W. Hewitt, Army district engineer at Galveston, so notified Jeff Bell, Corpus Christi chamber manager. The last previous intracoastal canal progress report had indicated virtual completion of the canal to Corpus Christi by March 15. The latest advices added that service between Galveston and Corpus Christi might be interrupted slightly until mid-May because engineers were removing dams at Freeport and because of high water emptying into the canal from the Brazos River. "Plans for a big celebration at Corpus Christi to mark the canal opening have been dropped because of the war, but that does not lessen the importance of the event to South Texas," said Ray Leeman, executive vice president of the regional chamber. The South Texas Chamber has long advocated completion of the canal.

LONESOME FARM FOLK

By Madeline Dahl Nagle

Nothing's quite the same, Mom—
Though the lilacs bloom again,
The whippoorwill, with broken wing,
Still nests in Chandler's lane.

The sun's a-set all glorified
The way you loved it so—
Making lacey shadows down the path
And the pond—like jewels aglow.

I churned today—Pa ploughed a piece;
He fixed the wind-mill's squeak;
I weeded out your gardens—
There'll be nasturtiums in a week.

I found a fragment of your dress
Caught on the pasture rail;
You know—the pink sprigged calico
We ordered through the mail.

We're still so awful lonely, Ma;
Even Shep looks lonesome-like.
Without you rockin' in your chair
Things don't seem just right.

Well, sweet one, it's time now
To drop the dumplin' in the stew;
I try to do most everything
The way you taught me to.

We manage to be cheerful,
You'd want it just like that,
But it's mighty hard—because we know—
That you're—not comin' back.

TIM, NICK AND JERRY

By Madeline Dahl Nagle

Tim, Nick and Jerry, three country lads, sat on the mossy banks of the Mississippi river, dangling their bare feet in the cool shallow water as slowly it rippled and wended its way to the sea. Smooth pebbles and darting silver minnows could be seen through the transparent stream, which shimmered like a huge platinum ribbon. The summer sun shone down on the happy trio, while idly they skipped flat stones across the glassy surface, making little circular splashes like crystal spray as they skimmed the water.

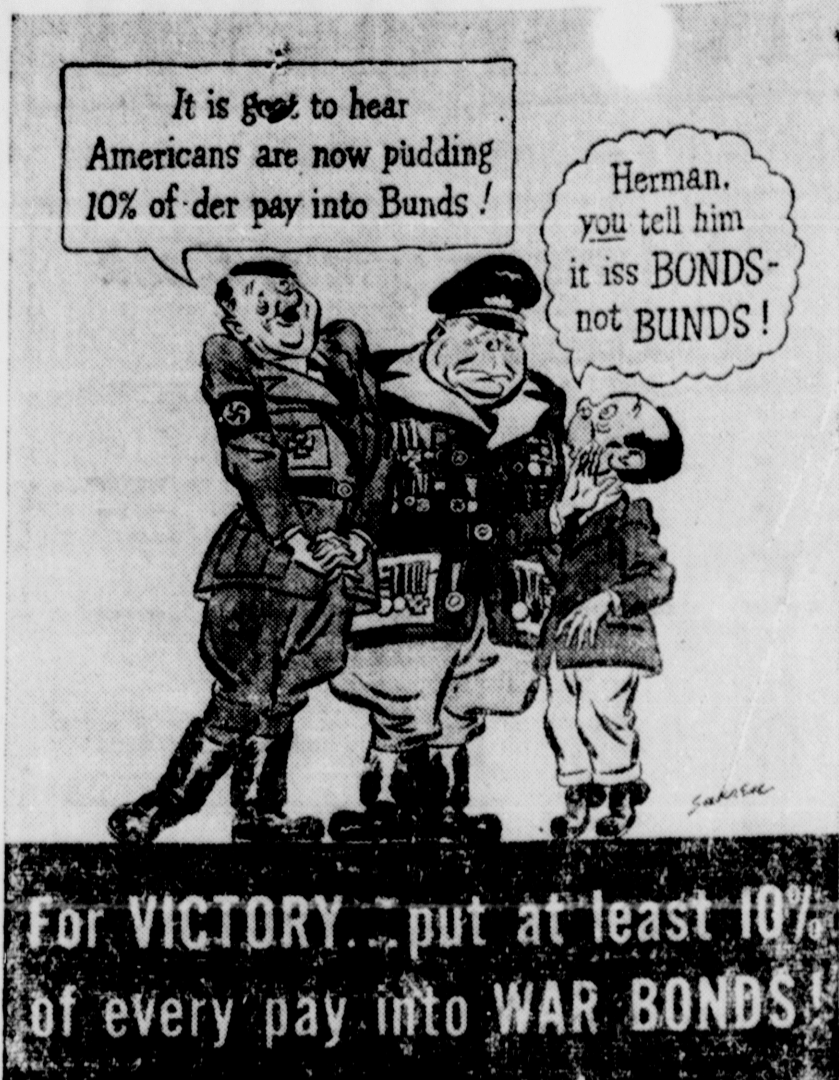

"You know what," said Tim, breaking the silence, "When I grow up I'm going to be rich like that Mr. Patterson that was at our house today to sell father farming machinery. I'm going to ride on trains an' boats—big ones I mean. Steamships they call 'em, you can cook an' eat an' even sleep on 'em—I heard Mr. Patterson telling Granma all about it... yes-er-ee, that's what I'm going to be, a traveler, an' rich!" "Aw, none o' that for me," Nick replied, sort of disgusted, "I'm going to live right here, all my whole life, an' when I'm grow'd up I'll be more 'portant than Jessie Reed's paw who owns the mill, an' the feed store an' all the land yonder—I'll build a big house out'n red bricks like the Court House in Main Town, an' I'll have enough money so's I can buy one o' them ice cream sod-ies every single time I go to town." Jerry added in his droll manner, "I'm going to be a General, and fight in a war—and wear a uniform with bright buttons and gold stripes, like the General on the calendar that hangs on our kitchen wall back of the wood box—I'm going to have a grey mustache, and a sword and spurs—that's all I ever want to be's a General!"

Timothy S. Farris, Nicholas A. Bowman and Gerald R. Rogers walked arm in arm across the steel and concrete bridge that spanned the mighty Mississippi. They stopped as they neared the center of the bridge, one pointed his gold tipped cane to the roaring dam below. Then with a gloved forefinger, traced the shore line. "Right down about there, is where we used to sit and dream—and our dreams all came true." "Here I am," boasted Nicholas, "standing over the land my father owned when I was a boy. I own the docks, the power house, a chain of drug stores and the most beautiful home on the River Drive." "And I," continued Timothy, "have also realized my childhood desires. I have traveled far and wide, I'm president of the largest steamship company in the world, and in the fifty odd years since we whiled away the hours on the mossy banks—now a levy—I've become a very rich man." Gerald R. Rogers smiled as he patted his empty coat sleeve with the gold stripes, then fumbled with the medals on his chest as he added, "Yes, sir, and I got to be a real honest to goodness General, fought in a war and it was well worth it, fellows—plenty worth it. I'd do it all over again gladly if I had to—I'm proud to be a General." The noonday sun shone down on the visor of the General's cap, on the glossy sheen of Timothy's derby and on Nicholas' velvet fedora as they leaned carelessly over the wrought iron railing of the Great Bridge. "Get along there, you guys," bellowed officer Pat Finnigan, "what ar' you up to anyway, hangin' over the rail like a bunch o' nit-wits—Get along ther' I tell yo'—ther'll be no suicides from this end of my beat if I can help it—get goin' I said, didn't I?"

The three old men sauntered on across the bridge. A newsboy was yelling his Extras outside of one of the Bowman drug stores. They paused for a copy. Timothy asked the ragged newsy what he'd like to be when he grew up. "Who, me?" grinned the boy. "Why I'd like to be a farmer, way off some where, no noise, no tall buildings, no angry mobs swarming around me all day and night, I'd like peace and quiet, a breeze, a place in the woods, a good meal once in a while—Yaw—I'd like to be a farmer—want t' make somethin' of it?"

Laughingly they entered the drug store, pushed their way up to the service fountain—and ordered sodas. The slim young fellow who took the order, fizzed the froth into the glasses—"Say, Bud," said Nicholas. "If you could have any wish, what would it be?" "Mr.—if I could get away from this joint for good—I'd never look another minced ham or egg salad sandwich in the face again—give me the country, lots of mashed potatoes, fried salt pork with cream gravy, lots of out doors—oh boy—would that be swell?"

On their way to the Club, they encountered a boot black. Now the General did the questioning. "Hello Ben—now if you could have any wish—what would you want most of all?"—"Boss, they ain't nothin' to them wishin' stunts—if they was, I'd be way down 'n Geo'gia, in that little ole tumble' down shack, eatin' my mammy's corn bread and m'lasses; I'd roam that ole plantation in my bare feet—I'd nev'a want to see shoes, no mo'e."

Tim, Nick and Jerry, three prosperous city fellows, wore suppressed frowns as they resumed their promenade. For not one of the poor boys that they had questioned—had a wish to be a rich man...

"How about taking a little vacation?" mumbled Tim. "A great idea," agreed Jerry. "And why not go to the country?" drolled the General. "And let's take the newsy, the soda jerker and Black Ben, the boot-black, along, shall we?" "Swell," echoed the trio, "let's get busy." They all grinned from ear to ear as they passed through the revolving door of the Club. The handsomely attired door attendant looked puzzled after they disappeared, and mumbled to himself—"Well, what do you know—those old ginks are laughing for a change."

WINDS

O Wind, we see thy footsteps
On the waters at our feet
And we feel thy august presence
Where the wind and waters meet!
Very often thou art with us
As we travel far and wide
But we never yet have seen thee
Though so often we have tried.
Yes, we know thy tender wooing
Of each little blade of grass
And the gentling of thy footsteps
As the sweet spring blooms you pass;
We have heard thy sweetest music
Rippling through the golden grain
And we often see thy pathway
Through a shining mist of rain.
We have seen thy architecture
At its best among the dunes
Where great castles, turrets, towers
Do not mind thy age-old runes.
O how often we have gathered
In the cities of the dead
And have heard thy saddest music
In the pine boughs overhead.
We have heard thy plaintive moaning
In the caves beneath the earth
And have heard thy shrieking sirens
Where great mountains rear their girth,
And standing neath the great se-quoias
Where for centuries thou hast blown
We have felt thy ageless power
As we yet have never known.

CHIPS

The way you lift your head and smile
Though troubled fears hold you in guile,
The dearness you alone can show,
Though darkness yet is all you know
Is stamped in flame across my heart.

You heard the battery radio
Broadcast a warning of the snow
And saw the dark'ning of the sky?
The way you make those chiplets fly
Is more than any treasure-trove,
Of this which you seem as of a part.

HONEYCOMB

No accidental skill,
No brief, haphazard flight
Contrived this honeycomb
And sealed it waxen-tight.
No easy task to fill
Each carefully wrought cell—
Journeying with stint or ease
For forty thousand miles, the bees
From early sun to fading light,
Carried this nectar home.

(A pound of honey by man's measure,
A greedy feast, an epicure's delight
But to the thoughtful man a hard-won treasure,
A sacrifice, a prayer, a holy rite.)

Formation of a Texas livestock mutual aid committee to bring the many livestock organizations into closer co-operation may result from a recent meeting in Fort Worth sponsored by several of the state associations. James Goodwin Hall, head of the Quarterhorse Association of America, was named as temporary chairman and Boyce House, newspaperman, was chosen temporary secretary. Both live in Fort Worth. Presidents of the cattle, sheep, swine and other livestock associations will be invited to attend a conference in a few weeks to discuss the proposed plan.

Let's blast Japan—and Germany—and Italy—with the chain lightning of destruction that can be built from the scrap in our cellars, attics and garages, on our farms and in our places of business.

HOW TO PUT OUT FIRE BOMBS

New instructions in fighting fire bombs have been announced as a result of extensive research by technicians in the United States and England. It is reported by Marvin Hall, State Fire Defense Coordinator.
In a communication to Fire Chief L. A. Mechler, Mr. Hall stated, "All fire bombs should become familiar with the new and safer method of fighting incendiary bombs, described in the latest instructions released by the U. S. Army. The new method has already been adopted in England and New Zealand."

Chief L. A. Mechler said that the most important change in technique is that which calls for the use of a jet of water instead of a spray. A speedy attack on the bomb with a jet of water will knock the bomb out in less than one minute, thus saving valuable time which can be used in making other bombs nearby before they can start serious fires. Sand is not to be used except where water is not available or where the glare of the bomb can be seen by enemy flyers, he said.

Briefly, the latest instructions are:

1. Bring your fire-fighting equipment to the scene at once.
2. Shoot a jet of water directly at the bomb without delay, to put it out of action quickly.
3. Then use the jet, quickly, to quench the fragments and the remains of the bombs, and any fire that might have been started.
4. Be absolutely sure all the fire is out before you leave the scene.
5. Use a coarse spray only where scattering of metal must be avoided.
6. Use sand only if a bomb falls where it is not likely to start a fire if water is not available.

Chief L. A. Mechler pointed out that the desirable jet of water can be obtained from a garden hose, any type of water fire extinguisher, a pump-tank extinguisher, or a stirrup pump.

BEWARE OF GRASS FIRES

A plea for fire safety, issued jointly by Fire Chief, L. A. Mechler and Marvin Hall, State Fire Insurance Commissioner, points to the extreme hazard created by dry grass and weeds.

Chief Mechler stated that vacant lots covered with weeds and grass at this time are a serious menace to all surrounding buildings.

"Because fire can be started easily in such places," he said, "we must exercise extreme caution to prevent fires due to carelessness. Grass fires spread rapidly, and can easily result in excessive damage to adjacent property.

"If we can make certain that all matches, cigars and cigarettes are 'blackened out' before they are discarded, we can prevent many fires. Make certain that children do not have an opportunity to play with matches. Avoid starting any kind of fire where there may be a chance of its spreading to grass covered lots.

"However, if a grass fire is discovered, lose no time in turning in an alarm. Don't give it a chance to spread before calling the fire department."

Commissioner Hall reported that grass fires have shown an alarming increase over the state during the past few days.

"Fire hazards created by dry grass are more serious now than in several years," Hall declared. "This is true in both city and rural areas, and it presents a problem for every fire department in Texas.

"We can ill afford the cost of a 'scorched earth policy' at a time when all our resources are needed by our armed forces and the forces of the United Nations. It behooves all of us to prevent the outbreak of every fire."

FLUORSPAR Used in War and As Jewels

Jewels of Fluorspar, Purple Squirrel, Yellow Owl, part of the King collection.

Prehistoric Jewels—Jade faces. Two faces mounted in Silver, a few pieces of Mrs. King's famous collection.

By COL. FAIN WHITE KING, Research Director Archaeology of Kentucky

War is on the entire world. Possible success on the side producing the greatest amount of steel and aluminum, certain defeat without it. The mineral fluorspar is necessary in manufacturing both. Marion, Kentucky and Rosiclare, Illinois, districts produce ninety-one percent in the United States of this essential ore.

Fluorspar was the Mound Builders' most valuable jewel long before Columbus came to America. He adored its varied colors of purple, red and pinks and worked it into shapes of animals, birds, and human effigy. He had no "sparklers" as he did not know the principle of facets to reflect the light. The after glow colors of the sunset were seen by the Mound Builders in their fluorspar jewels and no doubt satisfied their love of beauty.

Since 1850 we have mined over four million tons of fluorspar to coat bath tubs, use in paints and for hydrofluoric acid, etc. In contrast the Mound Builder as a miner of this material was a "flop", during the hundreds of years he lived in the Mississippi Valley, he never mined as much as twenty-five pounds. There are not more than a total of three hundred pieces known of fluorspar jewels of the aboriginal peoples of the Mississippi Valley in the various collections of this country. One each in the Heye Foundation, Museum of the American Indian and the University of Kentucky, a few of these rare artifacts elsewhere. The King Collection at Wickliffe, Kentucky, an ancient buried city has over two hundred of these, many from the mounds which have proven to be in the last ten years of excavation a treasure house of prehistoric wealth.

Most of our diamonds were polished at Amsterdam prior to our present war, so too, was Wickliffe the center of the fluorspar polishing industry, the raw mineral was transported via water from the mines and brought to that important busy prehistoric metropolis at the meeting points of the great Mississippi and Ohio rivers. Here at this point, about forty mounds were built on a high natural fortification, temple buildings, home sites, court house and the burials of the people themselves, left in mute testimony of a important industrial and religious city.

In the last ten years with the help of my wife, Mrs. Blanche Bussey King, an ethnologist and writer and a trained staff of experts, we have taken from this thousand-year old city almost two hundred thousand objects that were worn and used in the daily lives of the first peoples that lived in our country. With camel hair brushes and orange wood sticks as the principal tools records that were unwritten are being revealed of the dim and almost forgotten past. Come and see our work.

Going through D'Hanis the other day on the bus I noticed a man on the sidewalk who looked familiar. I asked J. N. Lewis who was near me to see if the man had lost a finger. He said yes, so I knew he was Frank Huegele. He was a carpenter at Uvalde. I was in Dr. A. R. Bowman's office one day and Huegele came in. He had stuck his hand on an adz and cut off a finger. The bone had to be cut off some more so it could be properly sewed up and dressed. I held Huegele's hand. Frank never flinched. It must have been painful as the doctor clamped down with his bone clippers and snipped off a piece of bone. Uvalde had a number of Huegele citizens at one time but most of them along with the Liebers moved back to Medina county.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

WHENEVER I hear about anybody having a big family I think of Dad and Ma Hoskins. The Hoskins' had thirteen children.

They weren't a bad bunch of kids, by and large—but it seemed one or the other of them would always be having a fuss with the neighbors, or would break a window playing baseball, or some other kid trick. Kept Dad and Ma mighty busy all the time.

One day Dad got a bright idea. He called the whole family together for a special meeting at the dinner table.

He told them he was tired of checking up on them all the time. He said he thought they were old enough now to check up on themselves. The older children would watch the younger ones. They would have meetings every so often and hand out rewards or punishments.

Well, it was a crazy idea but the kids liked it and they started behaving better than they ever had before. The idea worked and Dad finally did get a little time for himself.

I mention this story about Dad Hoskins because it's something like what I understand the beer industry is doing to regulate itself.

As I see it, most of the beer industry behaves itself perfectly all right . . . but every now and then, I guess, a retailer comes along who runs a place that isn't up to scratch . . . sort of like a wayward kid.

So like Dad Hoskins' family, the brewers and beer distributors have united together in an industry self-regulation program to help the proper authorities "clean up or close up" offending retail places.

The brewers, who want to protect beer's good name, cooperate wisely with the authorities who enforce the laws.

From where I sit, that's a fine thing for the brewers to do . . . particularly when you realize that after all they're really not responsible for retailing conditions.

COUNTY CHAPTER RED CROSS PLAN ACTIVITIES

At the regular monthly meeting of the Medina County Chapter of the American Red Cross, held Tuesday afternoon at the High School, plans were discussed for future activities of the Chapter. Mrs. E. J. Leinweber, Chairman, presided, and Mrs. R. J. Noonan, Secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting, and Mrs. J. H. Burgin, Treasurer, reported on the financial condition of the Chapter.

Red Cross courses in First Aid are still in session and a new class is being organized in Hondo next Tuesday for the women civil service employees of the Hondo Navigation School and others interested. It was decided to sponsor the volunteer war relief work again this year which includes sewing, knitting and crocheting. Plans for the Roll Call campaign, which gets under way in the fall, were discussed. New activities to be taken up will be the making of surgical dressings and the teaching of a course in Home Nursing. Mrs. N. C. Johnson is the chairman and is preparing to organize county-wide classes.

Sitting in on the meeting of the local Chapter was Mr. Laurence Schuerman, Field Director of the American Red Cross at the AAF Navigation School here. He was formerly stationed at Camp Wallace near Galveston, Texas. Mr. Schuerman congratulated the local Chapter on its efficiency and cooperation and offered his assistance at any time. His work is concerned with Red Cross military welfare and he intimated that the local Chapter might be called upon to assist, such as the organization of the Grey Ladies, etc.

The Medina County Chapter of the American Red Cross meets the third Tuesday of every month.

PRICE AND RATIONING INFORMATION.

War Ration Stamp Number 8 will be valid for the purchase of five pounds of sugar during the ten-week period beginning August 23 and ending October 31. The Medina County War Price and Rationing Board announced.

"This is a larger amount of sugar and the ration period is longer than has been assigned for any previous stamp," the chairman explained, "but each person will have to continue using sugar at the original rate of no more than half a pound a week to make the five pound ration last ten weeks."

The chairman said the allotment of five pounds on Stamp No. 8 will permit household users to buy sugar in larger packages, and also will help to dispose of five, ten and 25-pound packages.

"Packages of these sizes were put up last fall and winter before it was known that rationing would be necessary," he said, "and the stores have had difficulty in disposing of these larger packages, because the ration stamps heretofore have been valid for only one or two-pound purchases. Unless the sugar in the larger packages is sold it would have to be repacked, and that would cause an undesirable waste of labor and materials."

Stamps Numbers 6 and 7 carry validity for the purchase of two pounds of sugar each until midnight of August 22.

FIFTH REGISTRANTS TO BE CLASSIFIED.

Immediate classification of Selective Service registrants of the Fifth Registration (June 30th) was announced today by General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director.

Local Boards throughout the State have today been instructed by State Headquarters memorandum to proceed immediately with the classification of all registrants of the Fifth Registration who have reached their twentieth birthday.

The men registered in the Fifth Registration, General Page pointed out, were those between the ages of eighteen and twenty, inclusive, and in Texas affected approximately 132,000 men.

"The Selective Training and Service Act, as amended," General Page stated, "sets out that, except as otherwise provided, every male citizen of the United States and every male person residing in the United States, who is between the ages of twenty and forty-five at the time fixed for registration, or who attains the age of twenty after having been required to register, shall be liable for training and service in the land or naval forces of the United States."

"Accordingly, all registrants of the Fifth Registration are, upon reaching their twentieth birthday, subject to induction when their order number is reached."

No national lottery was or will be held for registrants of this age group, General Page stated, and order numbers have been assigned on the basis of birth dates of the registrants (and alphabetically as to registrants born on the same date).

Registrants who have not reached their twentieth birthday will not be mailed a Questionnaire, he said, but immediately upon attaining their twentieth birthday they will be mailed a Questionnaire and classified in accordance with current Selective Service Regulations and policy for filling calls.

TO THE PUBLIC

In connection with my announcement as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Treasurer of Medina County, subject to the general election in November 1942, I wish to submit to the voters the following message in substantiation of my induction into active service of the Government of the United States.

Being a World War One veteran and having seen and experienced, in the fullest measure, the horrors of war between nations, I was in a position to evaluate the gravity of the present Global War perhaps much earlier than the average citizen. Over two years ago my conviction was that World War No. 2 would exact from the United States the very utmost in men, material and effort in order that our American way of life might endure. My conviction on that score is stronger today than at any time in the past.

I felt it my patriotic duty to give my time and effort in this dark hour and I shall continue to do so as long as our National existence is at stake. I have appointed in my place as Deputy County Treasurer a person of unquestioned ability, honesty and integrity to serve during my absence.

I ask your support in the November election. Thank you.

Respectfully,
O. J. BADER.

SEND CHEERFUL LETTERS TO MEN IN ARMED FORCES

Be careful what you write to the fighting men of Uncle Sam's armed forces.

This is the advice of hundreds of American Red Cross workers who come into contact daily with the troubles and personal problems of American service men both at home and abroad.

Too many times, they warn, the folks at home pour forth petty family problems in letters to their boys who are away in camp or fighting at the front. The result in many cases is the demoralization of a brave soldier.

It is the minority of letter writers who bring about demoralization among the troops. Many of these writers are unintentionally worrying the service man, a few deliberately. Most of them are merely prone to seek comfort on small personal problems from a soldier who himself needs the united support of his family at home.

So the next time you write Johnny Doughboy be cheerful, and if you cannot be cheerful, be factual, the Red Cross warns. A demoralizing letter, whether intentional or not can be as damaging to Uncle Sam's armed forces as an enemy bullet.

HONDO, TEXAS, AUGUST 21, 1942

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Official Washington considers the immediate future as the most critical, of the war in terms of both military and domestic activities. Armed with almost unlimited war powers, as reaffirmed by the U. S. Supreme Court's military saboteur trial ruling, the President now stands ready to tackle control of cost elements which include the regulation of prices and wages.

The zero hour of the anti-inflation drive may be at hand. Justice Rosenman, the President's favorite fact-assembler and phrase-maker, is on the job and the stabilization plan is reported drawn.

—WSS—

WPB emerges as the Czar of raw materials in the WPB-Army and Navy Munitions Board realignment. Chairman Nelson will say how much material goes into civilian production. ANMB continues to discharge basic duties outlined in the Army-Navy agreement and takes on others requested by WPB. WPB and ANMB are not rival but complementary to each other and the latter reports to the President through Mr. Nelson.

—WSS—

ANMB continues as the primary military body for reconciling and presenting to WPB Army and Navy requirements. It will continue granting priorities to the military services and their suppliers subject to WPB directives. WPB material and industry branches will be strengthened by direct military cooperation. Statute of the Industry Advisory Committee, which will be made up of representative industrialists responsible for maximum war production, has been increased.

A "priority accounting" system for the rigid control of priorities one goal of which is to achieve efficient allocation within an industry, is under consideration. Watch for developments.

—WSS—

With the clarification of WPB functions comes farm bloc agitation to override the expected Gillette alcohol-rubber bill veto. The bill would set up a separate agency, independent of Mr. Nelson, and powerful enough to siphon off materials for new construction. The President is "planning a move in addition to a veto."

—WSS—

With Congressional activity subsiding, this being August of a political year, two major domestic fronts remain—taxes and patents. Senate Finance Chairman George is preparing a tax bill for presentation to the Senate early in September.

Senate Patent Committee Chairman Bone, abetted by Thurman Arnold, is striving to lead a reluctant committee to scrap the present patent system. Unable to get any bills reported out, Mr. Bone reopened hearings this week. Arnold set the stage by proposing a new bill which would give the Justice Department supervision over the patent system and permit the Government to revoke a patent if it were used to dominate or restrain trade "unreasonably."

While the Justice Department is reported preparing another bill giving a patent commission power to set price ceilings on patented articles, Chairman Bone is planning to produce another bill which would embody a "complete reorganization of the patent system." Meantime the committee plans to continue operating with the Justice Department presenting data on alleged patent abuses.

RETROSPECTION

Along the road that leads to home
The yellow daffodils
Are blooming full
And cast their fragrance far
Across the earth that's good to see.

Along the road that leads to home,
Where once I loved to freely roam,
The yellow daffodils,
Upon the fields and hills,
Are blooming full,
Like fluffs of wool,
And cast their fragrance far,
Where man and beast still are,
Across an earth that's good to see—
I treasure this old memory.

—VELOROUS CALL.

SUMMER NIGHT

I saw a church outlined in moonlight,
Heard the organ's sweet refrain;
Saw two lovers hand in hand,
Felt the summer's breeze again
And I laughed
And knew that I had missed
Some of youth's sweet mystery.

—ANNA GROSE.

A summary of the past week's events reviewed by The National Editorial Association Defense Advisory Committee in cooperation with the Office of Government Reports.

FOR RELEASE AUG. 18, 1942

Lt. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, Chief of the Army Air Forces, said American airplanes generally are superior to those of the enemy. He said that in the Pacific theatre since the war started 1,110 Army planes have been shot down 190 with loss of only 104. These figures do not include planes destroyed on the ground, those shot down by anti-aircraft fire, Navy and Marine Corps action, or the work of the American Volunteer Forces in China.

Gen. Arnold said the goal of a 2,000,000-man air force with 185,000 fighting planes would be met. He said the recruitment and training of pilots, bombardiers and navigators is progressing perfectly. There is, however, a growing demand for gunners, various enlisted technicians, radio operators and glider pilots. Gen. Arnold said American planes are arriving in Britain every day in preparation for the aerial offensive against Germany in union with the R. A. F.

Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Commander of U. S. Army Forces in the European theatre, said in London that training of U. S. units there must be intensive in all its phases. "This is true," he said, "first, because the time is short; second, because the problems we have demand the ultimate in trained personnel; and, third, because our men must be toughened and hardened physically to stand the most rigorous operations."

The War Front

In the first offensive action by United Nations forces in the Southwest Pacific U. S. Marines effected landings and then consolidated their positions in the Tulagi Area of the Solomon Islands. At the same time, U. S. Army and Allied shore based aircraft from Australia continuously attacked "Japanese air bases and ship concentrations in enemy held harbors," in support of the invasion. Commander in Chief of the U. S. Fleet King reported early in the battle that the U. S. appeared to have had at least one cruiser sunk and two destroyers, two destroyers and one transport damaged, while a large number of enemy planes were destroyed and enemy surface units were put out of action. He said the type of operation being undertaken in the Solomons is one of the most difficult in warfare.

The Navy raised the toll of Japanese ships sunk or damaged in the Aleutians to at least 22 by adding a destroyer to those hit in the surprise attacks of August 8-9 on Kiska Harbor. U. S. headquarters in the European theatre reported Army Air Force fighters participated with the R. A. F. in 31 sorties off the coast of England in 48 hours ending August 13. Air Forces heavy bombers based in India and China continued destructive raids against the Japanese. The Navy announced the sinking of seven United Nations merchantmen by enemy submarines, the lowest weekly number of such sinkings announced in the past 16 weeks.

Rationing

Sugar ration stamp Number 8 will be good for five pounds of sugar in the ten-week period beginning August 23 and ending October 31, the Office of Price Administration announced. While not changing the basic ration of one-half pound per person per week, it will enable consumers to make purchase in larger lots and facilitate the disposal of 5 10 and 25-pound packages.

Price Administrator Henderson and Petroleum Coordinator Jakes announced jointly that fuel oil rationing on the East Coast may be unavoidable next winter. All Eastern motorists were told by the OPA to display their gasoline ration sticker immediately, because "It is illegal for any service station attendant to sell gasoline to a vehicle unless the sticker corresponding to the type of book is conspicuously displayed on the car." The rationing regulations for new passenger automobiles were amended to make members of the U. S. Armed Forces eligible to purchase new cars upon proof that a car is needed for transportation between residence and post of duty or on official military business where no military vehicle is available.

Farm Prices

Livestock price ceilings would require very complicated controls of marketing conditions, even to inspection at individual farms, Agriculture Secretary Wickard said. Such ceilings would benefit small packers, he stated, but would not increase supplies. If it becomes necessary, however, the Department of Agriculture will assist in working out a ceiling program, he said. Mr. Wickard reported the available meat supply, after deduction of Lend-Lease and military requirements, would furnish four pounds more meat per person between now and June 1943 than the average per capita consumption from July 1931 through July 1940. The Agriculture Department estimated the number of cattle on feed for market in the cornbelt states on August 1 had dropped 19 percent from the comparable figure a year ago, apparently because imposition of ceilings on beef prices caused feeders to deviate from their plans as reported in April this year.

Secretary Wickard said the corn supply is being used faster than corn is being produced, and next year "Unless we feed more wheat than usual," over 200 million more bushels of corn will be used than is being raised this year. There are still large stocks, however, in the national granary, he said.

Stabilization of Wages

The National War Labor Board granted an increase of 7½ cents an hour to 61,000 workers in 40 New England and 11 Southern textile mills. The Board denied any wage increase, however, to 32,000 employees in 10 plants of the Alumininum Company of America and 900 workers in the Buffalo, New York, plant of the American Magnesium Company because these workers "had received average hourly rate increases sufficient to compensate for the 15 percent rise in the cost of living which had occurred between January 1, 1941, and May 1942." The Navy, acting under orders from President Roosevelt, took over the strike-bound plant of the General Cable Company in Bayonne, New Jersey. The strike occurred at the plant, working exclusively on production of war materials, after the NWLB had refused a request for a general wage increase.

The Armed Forces

The Army announced an intensive recruiting campaign to enlist 100,000 skilled mechanics and technicians for service in the Army Air Forces, the Signal Corps and the Ordnance Department. All applicants must be male U. S. citizens between the ages of 18 and 44, inclusive, and all must obtain clearance from their Selective Service Boards. The War Department said it will train dogs as sentries, messengers, pack dogs, air plane spotters and for other purposes. Dogs For Defense, Inc., a private organization, will continue to act as the Army's procurement agency and the dogs will be trained at the Quartermaster Remount Depot at Front Royal, Virginia. The Department announced a reorganization of its various public relations units to eliminate the issuing of conflicting statements.

The Office of Civilian Defense will help recruit full time personnel for the Coast Guard Temporary Reserve for beach patrol and coastal lookout duty. The Navy said it will appoint retailers in designated trading areas to help carry out its plan for controlling the sale of ready-made uniforms to officers or chief petty officers, beginning October 15.

Transportation

Mail deliveries and pick-ups face curtailment in many localities because of lack of men and the need to conserve trucks and tires, the Post Office Department announced. Definite curtailment plans were announced for Washington, D. C., and Detroit. The Office of Defense Transportation said local transport systems throughout the country will face the heaviest load in history by mid-September. The ODT prohibited railroads, effective September 15, from hauling refrigerator and box cars carrying civilian freight unless they are loaded to capacity.

Shipments of eggs from Texas stations continued to zoom in February, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported. Total shell equivalent shipped from Texas loading stations during the month was 803 cars, as compared with 120 in the same month of 1941. Of the total shipment, 204 cars were for Texas consumption, while 599 cars were sent to interstate points. Poultry shipments dropped, however, only 24.5 cars of chickens leaving Texas loading stations in February as compared with 57 cars in the same month last year.

Hog marketings during 1941 were 760,000 head compared with 669,000 head in 1940, an increase of 14 percent over the previous year. With favorable hog prices farmers marketed more hogs, although the number of hogs raised and the number which normally would have been marketed during the 1941 calendar year was approximately 13 percent below a year earlier. The increased marketing, therefore, was accomplished at the expense of decreased farm slaughter. The 1941 fall pig crop was the second highest fall pig crop on record and the inventory number of hogs on farms January 1, 1942 was 2,042,000 compared with 1,926,000 January 1, 1941 and 1,798,000 head the 10 year (1931-40) average. In 1941, as usual, the bulk of Texas hogs were marketed at Fort Worth and the major portion of those shipped out of the state moved to markets at Los Angeles, California.

RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: That Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto, immediately after Section 49, a section to be known as Section 49a, to read as follows: It shall be the duty of the Comptroller of Public Accounts in advance of each Regular Session of the Legislature to prepare and submit to the Governor and the Legislature upon its convening a statement under oath showing fully the financial condition of the State at the close of the last fiscal year and an estimate of the receipts and disbursements for the current fiscal year. This statement shall also be contained in said statement an itemized estimate of the anticipated revenue based on the then in effect that will be received by and for the State from all sources showing the fund accounts to be credited during the succeeding year and said statement shall contain such other information as may be required by law. Supplemental statements shall be submitted to the Special Session of the Legislature and at such other times as may be necessary to show probable results.

From and after January 1, 1945, in the case of emergency and public necessity and with the assent of a majority of the members of each House, no appropriation of the cash and anticipated revenue of the funds from such appropriation is to be made which shall be valid. From and after January 1, 1945, no bill containing an appropriation shall be considered for consideration until and unless the Comptroller of Public Accounts endorses his certificate thereon showing that the amount appropriated is within the amount estimated to be available in the affected fund. When the Comptroller finds that an appropriation bill exceeds the estimated revenue he shall endorse on the bill thereon and return to the House in which same originated information shall be immediately made known to both the House and the Senate. The necessary steps shall be taken to bring such appropriation to the revenue, either by providing additional revenue or reducing appropriation.

For the purpose of financing the outstanding obligations of the General Revenue Fund of the State and its current accounts on a basis the Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby authorized to provide for the issuance, sale, retirement of serial bonds, equal in amount to the total outstanding obligations of the State, and approved obligations owned by said fund on September 1, 1943, provided such bonds shall not interest in excess of two (2) per cent per annum and shall mature in twenty (20) years from the date of issue.

Sec. 2 The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the State of Texas, at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first day of November, 1942, at which election voters favoring said proposed amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots, the words: "For the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, repealing appropriation bills passed by the Legislature to be presented to the Comptroller of Public Accounts as to available funds for payment thereof, limiting appropriations to the total of such available funds, providing for issuance of bonds to pay off State obligations outstanding September 1, 1943, and fixing the duties of the Comptroller of Public Accounts with reference thereto."

Those opposing said proposed amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots, the words: "Against the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, repealing appropriation bills passed by the Legislature to be presented to the Comptroller of Public Accounts as to available funds for payment thereof, limiting appropriations to the total of such available funds, providing for issuance of bonds to pay off State obligations outstanding September 1, 1943, and fixing the duties of the Comptroller of Public Accounts with reference thereto."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and existing laws of the State.

Sec. 4. The sum of Eight Thousand Dollars ($8,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses of said publication and election.

CASTROVILLE LUTHER LEAGUE MEETS AGAIN.

Friday night, August 14, 1942, the Castroville Luther League had their regular meeting. Our President, Eloise Bippert, was absent so Rev. A. H. Falkenberg took her place. We certainly appreciate that Rev. took her place. For this reason the business part of the meeting was short. Christina Otto gave a very interesting report from the Chautauqua held at Seguin this year. Christina was our League's delegate.

The San Antonio Federation as a whole has started reading books. The Leagues interested in this reading course should start a library of their own and buy books to read. The Castroville Leaguers as a whole liked the idea and the reading course will begin as soon as definite information can be obtained. Bible camp days are here again. The camp will be from August 27th to 30th.

Due to the fact that our President was absent we did not have all the information and could not come to a definite conclusion at the meeting so there was a called meeting after services Sunday morning.

Alvin and Wm. Santeleben, Jr., served a delicious lunch after the meeting consisting of ham sandwiches, potato chips, assorted cookies and a cool-ade drink. Everyone enjoyed their lunch.

The meeting was closed with a prayer and everyone departed at a late hour.

ZIONS LUTHERAN CHURCH

Sunday, August 23, 1942.

9:30 a. m. Sunday School and Bible classes. William H. Santeleben Jr., Supt.

10:30 a. m. German Divine Service.

The Sunday worship hour is one of the highlights of a Christian's week. Here he lays his burdens, cares and sins at the foot of the Cross. Here he quietly sits at Jesus' feet and listens to His word. Here he has the opportunity in sincere thankfulness for God's many material and spiritual blessings during the week; to sing His praises; to bring his offerings; to voice his prayers and to turn home and to his daily work again with the benediction of the True God resting upon him. Such joy must be experienced. Therefore, he who has often received it, always longs for more. Please join us in the House of God Sunday. Taste and see how good the Lord is. At our church you will find fine fellowship. Here you will find your friends and make new ones. We extend a cordial welcome to one and all to work and to worship with us.

Please attend the Lutheran Ladies Aid Society on Wednesday, August 26th at 3:30 p. m. in the Fuos bldg. The church with a welcome.

—A. H. FALKENBERG, Pastor.

MEETING OF ST. LOUIS C. Y. O.

The C. Y. O. held their August meeting Wednesday night starting at nine-thirty. Our Spiritual Advisor opened the meeting with prayer. The minutes were read and the treasurer gave his report. Betty Burell read a letter received from Mrs. W. A. Bendele of Hondo asking the girls of our parish and other religions to join their U. S. O. Center and help entertain the cadets and enlisted men. Mr. Frank Vance explained to the group how it is being run.

A motion was made by Melba Wurzbach that each member be taxed fifty cents to raise funds. It was seconded by Bernice Tschirhart.

A very interesting talk by Mr. Frank Vance was given and he chose "Proof There is A God," as his topic.

A motion was made to adjourn by Ernst Schuchart and seconded by Leon Mechler. The meeting was closed with prayer and a special prayer for all boys in the service.

A delicious lunch consisting of sandwiches, cookies and iced water was served by Naomi Steinle, Tommy Frey and Clovis Schweers. At a late hour all departed. Castroville will serve at next meeting.

ly seem to overlook the fact that a very large part of the wealth and property of all the people is invested in corporations—and that the great bulk of the owners of those corporations are persons of small and moderate means. As a result, when we "soak the corporations," we simply soak and destroy the savings of the people. That, in turn, reduces the ability of the people to pay taxes and to buy government bonds—and likewise destroys the confidence of the people on whom rests the responsibility of carrying on the business and industry of the nation.

One of the gravest weaknesses in our present tax structure, is the burden it imposes on businesses which have not benefited, and have in many cases suffered, from the war. Writing in Newsweek, Ralph Robey said of the new tax bill: "Under this measure companies whose incomes are more or less fixed such as public utilities, would be taxed disproportionately heavier than concerns engaged in war work. . . . For many such companies, therefore, the additional taxes proposed in this bill would mean almost certain bankruptcy." And it is these companies on which we will have to depend for sustained employment and peacetime expansion after the war.

Any tax bill which undermines basic industry will prove destructive in

OFFICIAL UNITED STATES TREASURY TEXAS WAR BOND QUOTAS FOR AUGUST

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 10.—Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, today announced the August War Bond Quotas for the 3,070 counties in the nation totalling $815,000,000.

The August quota for the State of Texas is $27,250,000.

exploit war needs to force concessions from management without arbitration by proper governmental bodies? That is not an academic question. It is an extremely practical one, and it was made by the heads of the United Mine Workers.

Some time ago, the southern coal operators, under the terms of their contract with the union, fined workers for taking part in what they believed to be an illegal strike last November. The operators planned to give the money to charity. Then it appeared that union workers could not take their scheduled ten-day vacation without imperiling production of coal which was vitally needed by war industry. The highest government officials requested that the vacation period be reduced to three days. The union bosses would agree to this only on condition that the fines be returned to the workers—without arbitration of any kind.

The operators agreed. As the Huntington, W. Va., Herald Advertiser said, they made this concession of principle "to insure the nation's war production machine against any serious stoppage of the flow of fuel. For that, the operators are to be commended."

And now the nation is entitled to know whether unions, in the future, will be permitted to blackmail industry into similar concessions. If they are, we will have rule by force, instead of by law, contract and arbitration—with the union bosses the dictators.—Industrial News Review

THE BIGGEST BUSINESS

The recent decision of the War Labor Board in the "little steel" case should cause a good deal of thinking throughout the country.

The Board allowed steel workers a substantial increase in wages, despite the fact that many liberal as well as conservative economists are convinced that higher wages will make adequate price control impossible, and start a potentially disastrous inflationary spiral.

The Board then decided in favor of so-called "union security." What that means is that men who are now members of a union cannot resign from it. They must continue as members and must continue to pay dues, irrespective of their personal opinions and desires.

The question this raises is of immense importance. The labor unions constitute the biggest of the country's "big businesses." Inasmuch as practically all war industries work under the closed shop or the union shop plan, the unions' "take" in initiation fees and dues reaches incredible proportions. Yet this "big business," as distinct from all other "big businesses," is not subject to regulation or public control in any shape, manner or form. No public accounting is made of the receipt or distribution of the vast sums it receives. It is an absolute fact that a small group of union heads has far greater power over the life and destiny of this nation than any other private group has ever possessed. It is also a fact that no man can go to work in a government-financed war industry which is making the instruments of war on which the entire nation depends for survival, without paying tribute to a union—and without accepting iron-handed dictation from a union.

In short labor leaders are in the saddle, and they are riding hard. They can ride us straight into a dictatorship—with themselves as dictators—until government takes over all labor and all business as in Germany. The tragedy lies with labor in the failure of its leaders to grasp the issues at stake.—Industrial News Review
